For now, we earthly Pandorans are still needed for various stages in the copying and selecting of teme, but teme machines are very rapidly evolving and it may not be long before there are self-repairing computer systems, self-maintaining power stations, artificial systems for choosing which new technology to build and which to ignore, and all the processes of replication will be shifted out of the hands of humans and into the world of teme machines. Please, if anyone knows how to get it to work, let me know.
